A short summary

ICAS 9 Adelaide, 5-9 July 2015

When the International Congress and Convention Association (ICCA) informed us that ICAS belongs to the top five percent of conferences world-wide, we decided on a franchise experiment. Four Australian cities, Adelaide, Brisbane, Melbourne and Sydney showed interest. Both Melbourne and Adelaide filed a bid and since the Adelaide bid was more all-compassing it was decided to have ICAS 9 in that city on the southern coast of Australia which has a tradition of strong ties with Asia. Three universities, the University of Adelaide, Flinders University and the University of South Australia, the city of Adelaide, the Adelaide Convention Bureau, the state of South Australia and the International Convention Management Services Company had worked closely to bring the bid together. The venue of ICAS 9 was the Convention Center bordering a promenade along the Torrens river. After negotiations with the Asian Studies Association of Australia (ASAA), several of its regional associations decided to have their biennial meetings coincide with ICAS 9. This was a way to guarantee sufficient participation in a place not coincidentally coined down under.

At ICAS 9, the ICAS Secretariat launched a new format: the Book and Dissertation Presentation Carousel which gives participants the opportunity to present their research findings in a concise way for those knowledgeable in the topic. It proved to be a very fruitful format for both presenters and audience and it has become a popular feature of the convention. At ICAS 11 there will be no less than seventy book and dissertation presentations. The young doctors pitching their dissertations found it an easy way to come into contact with interested publishers. The latter in turn were quite happy to get in touch with prospective authors. This win-win situation has brought and will bring about many happy marriages between publishers and authors.

In a pull-out supplement to The Newsletter, attention was paid to the question: What is a New Asian Scholar? ICAS is a fitting platform to ask such question, because it has the greatest diversified cross-continental representation, and most of its participants come from Asian countries. One of the most obvious observations is that Asian studies is now more and more being produced in Asia. New ideas and research findings are discussed not only among researchers who study Asia, but also among Asia scholars who live in Asia. In more than twenty articles ranging from 'The New Asia's scholar's role in Asia studies' and 'A China scholar working in Asia' to 'Navigating our culturally interconnected world and 'Africa and the unmasking of Asia' we are beginning to see the contours of this New Asia Scholar.

In retrospect the meeting was an important one for Adelaide because it brought fresh knowledge and perspectives on Adelaide's relations with Asia through the exchange with a wide range of top researchers in, to name but a few fields: urban development, social and economic transformation, migration and connectivity, history and cultural heritage. 'Interculture Adelaide' was one of the platforms at which this was made specific. It brought together scholars, policymakers and other stakeholders to consider the idea of interculturality, broadly defined as a set cultural skills supporting openness and adaptivity. Also from a financial point of view ICAS 9 was beneficial for Adelaide. The Adelaide Convention Bureau later estimated that ICAS 9 injected 5 million Australian Dollars into the Adelaide economy and created twenty new jobs. Furthermore, there was a wide range of freely accessible events and both the Governor of Southern Australia and the Major of Adelaide hosted stylish receptions of which many participants took good memories home.

Governor's Welcome

As Governor of South Australia, I extend my warm welcome to all delegates to the Ninth Biennial International Convention of Asia Scholars (ICAS). It is an honour for South Australia to host this leading calendar event for Asian studies scholars to share, discuss and exchange their ideas and research.

This year's ICAS is unique in the number of special events on offer: from a Pakistan Summit organised by the University of South Australia, to the Jembatan Initiative from Flinders University which aims to bring us closer to our Indonesian neighbour, to a series of regional Asian trade and investment updates hosted by the University of Adelaide. With such a wide-ranging suite of events, delegates from all backgrounds will have a wide choice of topics to engage and intrigue.

South Australia has become a model of multiculturalism where cultural and religious diversity within our community is valued and celebrated. InterculturAdelaide is a summit held within ICAS 9 that leads a national discussion on how to move to the next level of this model, focusing beyond acceptance, and towards deeper understanding of this diversity and how our differences create strength and mutual benefits for us all.

In this spirit of openness and harmony, I applaud our three state public universities in working cooperatively to bring delegations from many nations together here, for the robust and informed debate of the latest research on and from Asia that characterises ICAS conferences.

I hope that every delegate has productive and exciting time at ICAS 9, and I wish you all a pleasant and memorable stay here in Adelaide, the heart of a vibrant state.

His Excellency the Honourable Hieu Van Le AO
Governor of South Australia

Premier's Welcome

Adelaide is delighted to be hosting this 9th International Convention of Asia Scholars (ICAS 9), and I warmly welcome interstate and overseas delegates to our lovely city.

This event represents a milestone in Australia-Asia engagement because it is the first ICAS to be held in Australia and it is the biggest Asian studies conference in our country's history.

ICAS 9 promises to be rewarding and stimulating, with the five-day conference program covering a terrific range of timely and prevailing topics.

Given that the theme of the week is interculturality, I am very pleased to be taking part in the InterculturAdelaide summit on the final day.

South Australia has been greatly enriched by Asian cultures and perspectives since virtually the start of European settlement, and the State Government is seeking to further develop its connections and engagement with Asia.

Besides wishing delegates all the best for the convention itself, I hope they are able to see as much of Adelaide as possible during the week and to sample, in particular, our State's clean and green environment and superb premium food and wine.

I trust that this year's ICAS will not be the last to be held in Adelaide, and I look forward to it yielding practical results and serving as a foundation for long-term collaboration.

Hon Jay Weatherill MP
Premier of South Australia

Welcome from the Host Universities

It is my great pleasure to welcome you to Adelaide, South Australia for the Ninth International Convention of Asia Scholars conference; the first to ever be held in Australia.

The University of Adelaide is exceptionally proud of its great business and collaborative links throughout Asia. As such we are pleased to host you, nearly 1,000 Asian Studies scholars from around the world, and provide an opportunity for you to network and discuss opportunities for engagement and collaboration in an environment dedicated to fresh ideas and vibrant, animated discourse.

I hope you enjoy your stay and take every opportunity to explore our wonderful state, The University of Adelaide campuses and make the most of our warm, South Australian hospitality.

Professor Warren Bebbington
Vice-Chancellor and President
The University of Adelaide

Welcome to the Ninth International Convention of Asia Scholars (ICAS 9) and to Adelaide, South Australia. There are a number of exciting conversations taking place as part of this year's convention and the University of South Australia is proud to support such an important gathering of international scholars from Asia, Australia and around the world.

A unique aspect of ICAS 9 is integration of non-Asian scholars, government and industry into the three day event. This broad-based engagement is the foundation of InterculturAdelaide, a joint initiative of the University of South Australia and the University of Adelaide supported in part by the South Australia Government. This five day event will explore Asian opportunities for future-minded industries and engage Adelaide's vibrant Chinese, Indian and ASEAN communities.

Similarly, the Pakistan Summit, organised by the University of South Australia's International Centre for Muslim and non-Muslim Understanding, brings together renowned speakers to discuss issues of economy, security, politics, class and gender.

I hope you enjoy the stimulating atmosphere of ICAS 9 and your stay in Adelaide.

Nigel Relph
Deputy Vice-Chancellor and Vice-President: International and Advancement
University of South Australia

On behalf of Flinders University, I welcome you to Adelaide for ICAS 9. This is the first time that the conference has been held in Australia, and it promises to be one of the largest ever gatherings of Asia scholars.

Flinders University, as well as being a major sponsor of ICAS 9, will host a large number of events during the conference. These will include a postgraduate day, public lectures, panel sessions, and performances by the Gamelan Orchestra.

Since its establishment in 1966, Flinders University has enjoyed strong links with Asia. Earlier this year we announced our Jembatan initiative, designed to coordinate our community activities with Indonesia, and to deepen engagement between our two countries. Jembatan will be formally launched at ICAS 9, and I encourage you to attend this event on 7 July at 12pm in Riverbank Room 4, ACC.

During your stay in Adelaide, I also encourage you to explore the city and its surrounds, and to engage with scholars from the Adelaide-based universities.

Professor Nancy Cromar
Pro Vice-Chancellor (International)
Flinders University

Convenors' Welcome

Dear ICAS 9 Participants,

On behalf of the Local Organising Committee, we wish you all the warmest of welcomes!

We trust all our participants, speakers, exhibitors and visitors will enjoy the unique combination of people, events and international and Australian national associations on offer over this week.

We are pleased to have the Chinese Studies Association of Australia (CSAA), the South Asian Studies Association of Australia (SASAA), and the Malaysia and Singapore Society of Australia (MASSA) holding their biennial conferences as an integrated part of ICAS 9 while our peak national body, the Asian Studies Association of Australia (ASAA), has sponsored special panels on Pakistan and Turkey.

We are also very grateful for the support of the University of Adelaide as the institution contracted to work with the IIAS to run ICAS 9 as well as the support from the University of South Australia and Flinders University as our invaluable partners and co-hosts. Working together, the three universities together have shown a willingness to cooperate and present Adelaide and South Australia at their vibrant best.

ICAS 9 is also a special chance for the launching of several key Asia-focussed initiatives, such a series of Asian business updates organised by the University of Adelaide, and Flinders University's Jembatan Initiative, which is focussed on deepening relations with our Indonesian neighbour. In this spirit, one of our Keynote Speakers, Ibu Mari Pangestu, will present a joint ICAS 9 and OzAsia Keynote.

Our former Prime Minister, the Honourable Bob Hawke will launch the Pakistan Summit, bringing much needed attention to an often-overlooked part of South Asia.

Building on the conference theme of interculturality, the State Government of South Australia under Premier Jay Weatherill has generously supported UniSA's International Centre for Muslim and non-Muslim Understanding and the University of Adelaide/ICAS 9 InterculturAdelaide program on Thursday July 9.

This is the first time that interculturality has been given such prominence in Australia; this event seeks to harness international expertise on interculturality in Asia and bring it together with South Australians and others to help formulate new ways of increasing intercultural interaction to benefit social relations, cultural creativity, economic development, education and research. This will be another way in which Asia expertise can help shape public policy in unexpected and positive ways.

Of course, conferences are nothing without you as delegates making the effort to attend and sponsors and exhibitors who come great distances to show their latest products and services. We thank you all, and welcome you to ICAS 9!

Secretary ICAS

Welcome from IIAS and ICAS

We warmly welcome all the participants and visitors to the Ninth International Convention of Asia Scholars (ICAS 9) here in Adelaide, a city with strong ties with Asia. The ICAS 9 event is a landmark event for Adelaide. It will bring fresh knowledge and perspectives on the city's relations with Asia through exchanges among a wide range of Australian and international researchers on a vast range of subjects including: urban development, social and economic transformation, migration and connectivity, history and cultural heritage.

Over the last years, it has been a honour and a great pleasure for us to collaborate on this ICAS 9 with its academic partners, namely the University of Adelaide, Flinders University, the University of South Australia, the Asian Studies Association of Australia and its affiliated organizations, and our supporting partners: the City of Adelaide, the Adelaide Convention Bureau and ICMS.

Established in 1997, ICAS is a global platform enabling individuals and institutions from different parts of the world to come together to exchange on a variety of issues pertaining to Asia. Its Secretariat is hosted by the International Institute for Asian Studies (IIAS), Leiden, the Netherlands.

IIAS operates as a network-based, research-driven organization supporting the study of Asia. Informed by a humanistic and social sciences-related agenda, it focuses on three thematic clusters: Asian cities, Asian cultural heritage and global Asian interactions.

ICAS has contributed to the re-centering of Asian studies by including more 'Asian voices' while successfully convening a global space in which Asia scholars from the whole world can directly interact. An illustration of ICAS's global reach is the co-organization with the Association of Asian Studies in Africa (A-ASIA) of its inaugural conference, 'Asian Studies in Africa: The Challenges and Prospects of a New Axis of Intellectual Interactions', at the University of Ghana in Accra at the end of September of this year.

In a true ICAS spirit, this first pan-African conference on Asian Studies will bring together a diversified range of scholars and institutions from the continent and the rest of the world with a shared focus on Asia and Asia-Africa intellectual relations.

We wish all participants, exhibitors, and visitors a fruitful time at ICAS 9 and an enjoyable stay in vibrant Adelaide.

The Asian Studies Association of Australia

The Asian Studies Association of Australia (ASAA) was founded in 1976 to promote and support the study of Asia in Australia. Its members include educators and experts in all areas of the Asian region. The ASAA is proud to support ICAS 9 and the intellectual engagement on Asia that the conference nurtures. At ICAS 9 the ASAA celebrates the launch of its new website that integrates its diverse publications, conferences and member services in one convenient location.

The Association's flagship journal, Asian Studies Review is now in its 39th year of publication and is edited by Dr Michael Barr from Flinders University. Each year the ASAA selects the best article for its prestigious Wang Gungwu Prize.

<http://www.tandfonline.com/toc/casr20/current>

The Association also publishes a blog with latest expert commentary on Asia titled Asian Currents, edited by Allan Sharpe. <http://asaablog.tumblr.com/>

Four book series are operated by the ASAA—the Women in Asia Series, South Asia Series, Southeast Asia Series and East Asia Series—all with Routledge. The editors welcome submissions from ICAS 9 participants to each of these publication outlets.

In 2016 the ASAA will host its 21st Biennial Conference at ANU in Canberra between 5-7 July. The conveners, Professors Edward Aspinall and Robert Cribb, welcome all ICAS 9 delegates to return to Australia to visit our national capital for further dynamic intellectual engagement on Asia.

The ASAA wishes all ICAS 9 delegates a productive and enjoyable time in Adelaide.

Prof Louise Edwards FAHA, FASSA, FHKAH
President, ASAA

The Chinese Studies Association of Australia

The Chinese Studies Association of Australia's 14th Biennial Conference, hosted by the University of Adelaide, is proud to be part of ICAS 9, a once-off cooperative event bringing together Australia's Sinologists with Asianists from around the world.

The Adelaide CSAA Local Organiser, Dr Gerry Groot (President), Dr Delia Lin (Secretary) and Dr Baohui Xie (Treasurer) hope that all CSAA participants will benefit from this unique opportunity to be part of something much bigger as the next conference in 2017 will revert to its customary format of being hosted within a university.

We are very pleased that the CSAA has, with the assistance of the University of Technology (Sydney), secured Ass. Prof. Guobin Yang as keynote speaker for 2015 discussing censorship, an ever more topical issue as the room for political debate in China shrinks.

Other highlights for this conference include:

- The local launch of the Australian Centre for China in the World 2014 Yearbook, Shared Destiny
- The China Business Update session supported by the University of Adelaide's EU Centre for Global Affairs and the Institute for International Trade
- Special panels on
 - Confucius Institutes: Then, Now & Tomorrow
 - Chinese media
 - Notions of Justice
 - Media and the Environment
 - The Territorial State: Towns, Taxes and Rank
 - Language power, discourse and social change

ABOUT THE ASSOCIATION: The CSAA was formed in 1989 and has been active in promoting research and scholarly interaction ever since. We welcome interest from around the world and urge you to visit our website <http://www.csaa.org.au/>

Malaysia and Singapore Society of Australia

The Malaysia and Singapore Society of Australia (MASSA) is the first 'country' association to be affiliated with the Asian Studies Association of Australia (ASAA) - shortly after ASAA's formation in 1976. The inaugural MASSA Colloquium was held at Griffith University in 1977. MASSA serves as a focal point for scholarly contact and communication and strives to represent and promote the interests of Malaysia and Singapore studies in Australia, the Asia-Pacific region and beyond. Panels on Malaysia and Singapore continue to be a regular feature of the biennial ASAA conferences, where the James C. Jackson Memorial Lecture is delivered by a leading scholar of Malaysia and Singapore studies. Professor Wang Gungwu (National University of Singapore) presented the James C. Jackson Memorial Lecture at the University of Western Sydney in 2012 and Professor Garry Rodan (Murdoch University) at the University of Western Australia in 2014. These lectures have been published by MASSA and are posted on the MASSA website. In alternate years to the ASAA conference, MASSA hosts a Colloquium/Symposium, at which established and emerging scholars present papers. The most recent 18th Symposium, was held at the University of Sydney in December 2013.

The current President is Assoc. Prof. Lily Rahim of The University of Sydney and the Secretary/Treasurer is Assoc. Prof. Michael Barr of Flinders University.

Hawke @ ICAS 9: A Public Lecture on 'Plural Diversities and the Politics of Migrants Encounter in South East Asia'

Date: Tuesday, 7 July 2015
Time: 18:15 – 19:15
Venue: Riverbank Room 5, Adelaide Convention Centre
Cost: Free – Open to the public

In this public lecture hosted by the Hawke Research Institute in partnership with ICAS 9, Professor Brenda Yeoh presents new ways of understanding the globalising dimensions of Asian cities, through the prism of Singapore. Singapore is a city-state with high globalising ambitions—criss-crossed with a high density of transnational flows of international students, labour migrants, 'foreign talent' and marriage migrants. Prof. Yeoh looks at a range of contact 'zones' to illustrate the spatialised politics of encounters in this context, arguing that contact zones are not only sited in the public domain of urban environments (e.g. streets, neighbourhoods, communities, civil society), but also exist in the sphere of the intimate (e.g. families, households, home). Rethinking the politics of plural diversities in the city requires acknowledging the migrant "other" across a range of public and private spaces, where "the other" may be "strange" and "unfamiliar", but may well be "intimate" and even "familial".

Professor Anthony Elliott, Director of the Hawke Research Institute, will be introducing and chairing this event.

INTERCULTURADELAIDE: Cultural Adaptivity for the Asian Century Adelaide Convention Centre, 9 July 2015

InterculturAdelaide is a major public policy summit and action research project taking place within ICAS 9 on Thursday 9 July. Its aim is to bring together scholars, policymakers and other stakeholders to consider the idea of "interculturality" — broadly defined as a set of cultural skills supporting openness and adaptivity. The summit aims to stimulate a discussion in South Australia of Australians' own diversity, both ancient and modern, and of our relationships with our equally-diverse neighbours in the Asian region.

The day's special focus is the rich and complex connections between Australians and our neighbours in Southeast Asia, India and China. We will examine migration from these regions to Australia, as well as our sharpened focus on these regions as Australia's partners in trade, investment and cultural exchange. InterculturAdelaide will ask:

- How can interculturality assist Australians to view diversity not as a threat, problem or resource to be managed, but simply as a feature of what we are?
- How can Australians formulate new and relevant notions of community to better support our changing needs as a diverse people?
- How can Australians harness our own diversity to find a new, prosperous place for ourselves in a rapidly restructuring global environment?
- How can Australians join with others to help support the growth of interculturality? Could such alliances help to undermine prejudice, racism, or even violent extremism?

Keynote Speakers

- Professor Prasenjit Duara, Raffles Professor of Humanities and Director, Asia Research Institute at the National University of Singapore. In light of our diversity and that of our Asian neighbours, Prof. Duara will ask: how relevant is the concept of secularism?
- Professor Gary Bouma AM, UNESCO Chair in Intercultural and Interreligious Relations — Asia Pacific, Emeritus Professor of Sociology at Monash University, Acting Director of the Global Terrorism Research Centre, and Associate Priest in the Anglican Parish of St John's East Malvern, Victoria. Prof. Bouma will speak on religious diversity and interculturality.
- Hon. Nik Nazmi Nik Ahmad, Selangor State Executive Councillor for Education, Human Capital Development, Science, Technology and Innovation, Parti Keadilan Rakyat Youth Leader, and Member of the Selangor State Assembly for Seri Setia.

Panels and Ideas Laboratories

InterculturAdelaide is a mixed-format event, featuring panels of expert talks, and free-discussion "ideas laboratories". The program is designed to maximise input and reflection, and the day's proceedings will inform the drafting of a policy paper for submission to the Government of South Australia.

To provide a structure to the day, the ideas laboratories will be organised around six key policy areas:

- Education and Research;
- Cultural Industries and Urban and Regional Environments;
- Sports and Tourism;
- Food and Wine;
- Health and Services; and
- Inclusion, Cohesion, Resilience and Countering Radicalisation

All informed stakeholders, members of the public and/or registered ICAS 9 delegates are welcome to attend InterculturAdelaide. Please feel free to attend any of the featured talks, join the open discussion in an ideas laboratory, or indeed simply listen, learn and network for all or part of the day.

ICAS 9 delegates registered for the full conference, can attend these sessions at no extra cost. Otherwise a Thursday day registration can be purchased by seeing the staff at the Registration Desk.

InterculturAdelaide is organised by the International Centre for Muslim and non-Muslim Understanding at the University of South Australia, the Department of Asian Studies at the University of Adelaide and the Ninth International Convention of Asia Scholars. Its major sponsor is the Government of South Australia.

Pakistan Summit

Monday 6 July 2015

Panorama Room 1, Adelaide Convention Centre

The Pakistan Summit will engage with questions of Pakistan's economy, geo-politics and foreign policies, political, legal and social structures. It will showcase contestations over resources, land and the cultural landscape in order to debate the issues from multiple perspectives. By engaging experts on Pakistan across Australia and internationally, the Summit aims to build cross-disciplinary expertise on Pakistan and more broadly on the Indian Ocean region.

The Summit is co-hosted by the University of South Australia's International Centre for Muslim and non-Muslim Understanding; the Institute of South Asian Studies at the National University of Singapore; and the Centre for Muslim States and Societies of the University of Western Australia. It is supported by the Asian Studies Association of Australia and the South Asian Studies Association of Australia.
